

RUNAWAY
THIS NOONAn American Express Team
Wrecks a Farmer's Wagon on Fleet Street.

A horse attached to one of the delivery teams of the American Express company made things decidedly lively for a short time this noon. The animal was left in front of Mechanics block on Congress street, while the driver went to deliver a parcel. From some cause the animal took fright, wheeled around and dashed through Fleet Street. The farm team of Mr. Goodwin of West Rye was hitched to a post near the National block and as the heavy express wagon swung into the street it came in collision with Mr. Goodwin's team and immediately there was confusion. When the two teams were separated it was found that Mr. Goodwin's had both shafts broken, the horse's harness torn and the load of apples, turnips and other vegetables scattered around the street. The express company's team was but slightly damaged.

MARRIES IN THE WEST.

Robert J. Ballard of This City
Takes Bride at Plano, Ill.

The wedding of Robert J. Ballard, son of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Ballard of this city, and Miss Lena Ethel Lakin occurred on Nov. 26 at Plano, Illinois, the home of the bride, who is a highly esteemed young lady of that town. The groom has for some time been connected with the Chicago Engineering school in expert electrical work and has a host of friends in his native city who join in extending the best of good wishes and congratulations to the newly wedded couple.

A strong vaudeville program will be presented at Portsmouth Theatre on Thanksgiving day, both at the afternoon and evening performance.

JUMPED TO
HER DEATHYoung Woman While Deranged Leaps
Twenty Stories to the Ground

Chicago, Nov. 25.—Possessed with the idea that she was pursued for dishonorable purposes, Miss Maude Van Deusen, 25 years old, leaped from the twentieth story of the McCormick building today and was crushed to death on the stone paving of an alley.

She jumped from a fire escape nearly 250 feet above the ground. Her body struck another fire escape at the first floor and bounded into the alleyway.

Miss Van Deusen, according to papers found on her person, was a school teacher in Humboldt, Neb. It appeared that she had been seeking a position here and had been obsessed with the idea that she had been in danger from white slavers. She wrote that she had been driven to appeal for protection to Chief of Police Mcweeney, to the federal department of justice, and to social settlement workers.

She had prepared for her death by pinning across her bosom a strip of white linen in which had been stained crimson at either end and on which she had printed in large letters "Death before dishonor." She had tied around her neck a copy of the New Testament, in which she had marked passages in John. She held her hand back in her hand as she jumped and it was picked up near her body. In it was another marked Bible and a typewritten statement of several thousand words entitled "Part of My Life's History."

"I will die clean if I have to kill myself," was written at the head of one of the sheets.

A strip of bacon, a small paper of pepper, an ounce of tea and $3.19 in currency also were found in the handbag.

The police assert that Miss Van Deusen evidently was deranged. The landlady of the house in which Miss Van Deusen had been rooming said that the young woman had been without employment for some time.

"I am trying to write this without the least emotion," her typewritten statement began, "and, though the following statements may seem dramatic, your reason will assure you that they contain common sense."

"I have very little money and am not allowed to hold a position. I will accept no money but that I earn."

"If I do not get help it will be a certainty that I cannot escape falling into the hands of the spiritualistic white slave trade, and that will force me to self-destruction."

The police do not understand what Miss Van Deusen meant by "spiritualistic white slave trade."

Miss Van Deusen, it is said, was the only daughter of Dr. Lydia Van Deusen of Falls City, Neb. She is said to have told friends that she worried a great deal over a Hindu cult.

The young woman is said to have been harassed by a hallucination that she was pursued by the representatives of this cult.

Miss Van Deusen came to Chicago from Cincinnati, June 26, 1910. While in the Ohio city she worked as a stenographer and lived at the Young Woman's Christian association home.

MANY DEATHS
BY EXPLOSIONStarch Plant at Waukegan
Completely Destroyed
Yesterday.

Waukegan, Ill., Nov. 25.—An explosion which wrecked the dry starch house of the Corn Products company's plant this afternoon, killed between three and twelve workmen, injured twenty-seven others, several of whom will die, and caused about $100,000 property damage.

Uncertainty as to the number of dead was caused by inability of firemen to search the burning ruins because of continued minor explosions.

Edward Conrad, deputy in the Lake county coroner's office, was authority for the statement that twelve men at least had been trapped in the wrecked building.

Charles Ebert, superintendent of the Corn Products company's Waukegan plant, said that only three men had been killed and twenty-seven injured.

Nearly all of the workmen killed or injured were Polish, Lithuanian or Austrian and were on the company's pay roll by numbers and not by names. This further increased the difficulties met by the coroner in his efforts to arrive at a correct death list.

The explosion tore the two-story frame top house from the five-story building, and scattered bits of it for fifty yards in all directions.

Firemen from North Chicago, the National Envelope plant and the American Steel and Wire company's plant aided the Waukegan department in preventing spread of the fire to other portions of the big Corn Products plant.

Although the fire appeared to be under control tonight, the firemen said they expected it would continue to burn tomorrow, with the possibility that new explosions would start it afresh.

ALL THREE MEN
ARE ACQUITTEDEttor Jury Makes Report Today at 8.30, After Six Weeks' Trial

Salem, Mass., Nov. 26.—The jury in the cases of Ettor, Giovannitti, and Caruso, charged with the murder of Ann Lopizza, reported at 8.30 o'clock this morning, the verdict being as was generally expected an acquittal of all three men.

Less than an hour after Judge Quinn had left the court house at 6 o'clock, last night with the announcement that he would not receive a verdict until this morning, the jurors fled from their room and went to their hotel to supper. After supper they retired to their rooms and the report spread quickly over the city that a verdict had been reached. Judge Quinn it was declared had been informed of the report but he did not alter his decision not to accept the findings of the jury.

When the jury left the court house it had been deliberating five hours. Officers of the court, attorneys interested in the case, and anxious friends of the accused remained about the court house until a late hour, but their hopes for a reception of the verdict were unrewarded. Scores of rumors as to the nature of the verdict were circulated. These embraced every possible form.

Late it was rumored that Judge Quinn might open court at an unusually early hour today, to receive the finding of the jury if an agreement actually had been reached. The fact that the jury was not returned to the court house left little doubt as to that in the minds of anyone. That the court might receive the verdict as early as 7 o'clock was said to be probable, though Judge Quinn fixed the hour for opening the court at 8 o'clock.

When the report of the jury having reached an agreement, was spread, Dist. Attorney, Henry C. Atwell, had gone to his home in Lynn. Some of the defendant attorneys had also left for their homes in nearby towns. Fred H. Moore and J. P. H. Mahoney of counsel for the defense, were here however, ready to appear if court convened.

When he left for his home Judge Quinn announced that he would not return to receive a verdict during the night nor would he return in response to a request for further instruction. The court made it plain that if the jurors could not reach a verdict without more enlightenment, it would be necessary for them to postpone their deliberations until Tuesday.

The case was given to the jury after Judge Quinn had delivered a lengthy charge in which he gave the instruction that neither Ettor nor Giovannitti could be found guilty of murder in the first degree.

"The evidence relating to these two defendants, said the court, does not warrant conviction for murder in the first degree, because it is not contended that either of them premeditated the murder of anyone."

The instruction eliminating the possibility of the labor leaders facing the electric chair, was a source of great relief to their friends and sympathizers, notwithstanding the fact that both in their remarkable ad-resses to the jury, asked for the full penalty should the jury find them guilty. Even the accused seemed to feel more cheerful when the words which barred the door to the death-house came forcibly from Judge Quinn's lips.

For Caruso, the defendant mill worker, who has become a father since his incarceration ten months ago the instructions of the court did not preclude the electric chair. Should the jury find that Caruso was guilty of participation in the fatal riot, as charged, it might find him guilty of murder in the first or second degree. A hopeful instruction however for this prisoner, was found in the direction that the jury in order to adjudge him guilty of first degree murder must be satisfied that he or his confederates acting with him, premeditated the taking of a human life.

Coast Experts Expect Ritchie to Put up a Great Fight Against Wolgast

WOLGAST

San Francisco, Nov. 26.—The boxing fans of San Francisco are all agog over the coming lightweight championship bout between Ad Wolgast and Willie Ritchie on Thanksgiving day afternoon. The prevailing opinion seems to be that Wolgast will come out on top despite the possibility that he has gone back to some extent. Although Ritchie demonstrated in his four round encounter some time ago with Wolgast that he is more clever than the champin, it is not thought that he will be able to withstand the title holder's assaults for twenty rounds. Ritchie is not built on rugged lines. He will be forced to reduce to 125 pounds ring-side, which may tend to weaken him, as his best figure is 135 pounds. At one time Ritchie did most of his boxing while weighing close to 140, but he claims to have grown lighter lately. Ritchie has been training at San Rafael where the climate is much warmer than at Frisco and will make it easier for him to reduce. He claims he will make the required figure without losing his strength and points out that he did so when he met Wolgast before. From all accounts Wolgast is as chipper and confident as ever. He looks upon the result of his recent bout with Joe Mar do not in the light of a reverse, but rather as an indication that he is fast rounding to his old time form.

No wonder you feel ugly, mean in ill tempered. Your system is full of bile not properly passed off, and what you need is a cleansing up inside. Don't continue being a bilious nuisance to yourself and those who love you, and don't resort to harsh physics that irritate and injure. ## THE DECEMBER WOMEN'S HOME COMPANION

The December Women's Home Companion contains a remarkable account of the birth of Christ, written by Washington Gladden. It is a simple, straight, narrative interesting and full of an extraordinary sense of wonder. Reading it is like reading about Lincoln or any other great figure in history.

In the same number there is an intimate personal account of the little Princess Mary, who is the only daughter of the King and Queen of England. Princess Mary is fifteen years old and has five brothers. The photographs that accompany the articles make an unusual feature.

The magazine contains six or eight special contributions that have to do with Christmas, particularly articles showing how to make various kinds of Christmas presents. The fiction is especially adapted to a Christmas number, and a special point is made of the art features. Many of the illustrations are in color.

The regular departments devoted to dressmaking, cooking and the household are filled with good reading and suggestions, of money value to those who will take them up and make use of them.

RAILROAD NOTES

The Boston & Maine railroad officials have issued orders to all in the train service regarding the strict observance of rules regarding protecting the rear of the trains on main line tracks.

E. O. Wiggin, one of the oldest known employees of the Boston & Maine Railroad, for many years a roadmaster on the Conway branch is said to have resigned.

Carload freight weighing in the subject of a hearing in the federal building in Boston, and shippers from all over New England as well as railroad men representing different departments are in attendance. The question has been studied by the interstate commerce commission for some time and hearings have been held in many parts of the country.

One was recently held in Seattle. John T. Marshland, acting for the commission. It was testified there that a test of 60 railroad scales only one was found to be correct the rest varying in inaccuracy from a few pounds to 32,000. The weighing of freight has long been in controversy between shippers and railroads. One main trouble has been that it was very hard to present evidence that shipments were overcharged, and almost impossible to make collection afterward.

PRISONERS MIGHT BE FREED

Many in New York Jails Are Held Contrary to the Strict Letter of the Law.

An examination of the prison reports of the state of New York has shown that 254 prisoners are at present serving terms in the state under illegal sentences.

Part of these prisoners claimed when on trial to be first offenders, and so got an indeterminate sentence. The law of New York provides that on second convictions no indeterminate sentence can be given.

Part of them, however, have sentences which terminate in the middle of the winter. The law of New York wisely provides that no prisoner may be released in the winter season, when work is scarce and the incentive to crime is redoubled by the hardship of the cold.

As to the first ground of illegality, other states have permitted indeterminate sentences on second convictions without discoverable bad results.

As to the second ground one can say the clamor against the courts would be less effective if judges would take more care to get on familiar and really friendly terms with the law.—Chicago Journal.

THE LAST WEEK TO HUNT BIRDS

Deer Season Opens in This County Next Week.

This is the last week of the open season throughout New Hampshire for woodcock, ruffed grouse, partridge quail, or Wilson snipe, and any person killing or having in possession any of these birds, after this week may be fined $10 for each bird or imprisoned 60 days or both. Water fowl with the exception of certain varieties protected by special laws may be killed until January 31, coon may be taken until January 1 and rabbits and other fur-bearing animals may be hunted through the winter, but with these exceptions this week ends the small game season.

With the close of the bird season however, the deer season opens in the central and southern part of the state, and deer may be killed in Sullivan, Cheshire, Hillsborough, Merrimack, Belknap, Strafford and Rockingham counties during the first 15 days in December. In Grafton and Carroll counties, where the season opened October 1, it will close next Saturday. This exception in the case of Coos county was made because there are unusually deep snows in that part of the state in December, and the deer begin to yard and are at the mercy of hunters, who might pursue them on snow shoes.

A number of changes were made in the deer law by the last legislature which should be remembered by hunters, who are preparing to go into the woods next week. One of these is that but one deer is allowed to a hunter in the counties of Rockingham, Strafford, Belknap, Merrimack, Hillsborough, Cheshire, or Sullivan, although in Coos, Grafton and Carroll counties each hunter is allowed two deer each season, as before. Hunters violating the law may be punished by a fine of $200 and six months imprisonment.

Cheshire, Sullivan, and Strafford were added to the list in which the use of the rifle in deer hunting is allowed, but in Hillsborough, Merrimack, Belknap, and Rockingham counties hunters are still restricted the use of shotguns, using a single ball or loose buckshot. An exception is made in Merrimack county in the towns of Andover, Wilton, Danbury Hill, New London, Sutton, Bradford, Warner, Salisbury, Henniker, and Newbury where the use of the rifle is permitted. These are hill towns where there is less danger from the high powered rifle than there is in open and level country, and the rifle law was changed in these towns by request of their representatives.

It is expected that many hunters who have not been out for small game, will go for deer, and that many new applications for hunting licenses will be received by the commissioners and their agents this week. In this respect it is well to remember that the changes in the law relating to hunting permits. Any person who is a citizen of the United States, and a resident of New Hampshire may procure a resident hunter's permit in his own town or city for a fee of $1. Aliens and non resident property owners who have not been actually domiciled within the state for a period of six months, and thereby a legal resident, are no longer permitted to resident hunters' permits.

STILL ALARM

Chemical Arrives Just in Time to Prevent General Alarm

The auto chemical was called to the residence of Albert Gurney, 211 Union street on Monday afternoon, where a small fire in a shed used

WELL TOLD

By a Portsmouth Resident

The following has more interest for Portsmouth residents than it otherwise would have because Mr. Dunlap is one of ourselves, a citizen of Portsmouth. If to prove of assistance to but one person in Portsmouth, it will have been well worth the telling. Albert Dunlap, retired, 36 N. School St., Portsmouth, N. H., says: "I suffered from kidney disease, brought on I believe by the hardships I endured while in the army. Some years ago my complaint became much worse and there was a constant pain in the small of my back that made me miserable. It was difficult for me to get about and if I stooped or moved suddenly, sharp twinges darted through my body. When I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised as a cure for such troubles, I decided to try them and procured a box at Philbrick's Drug Store. After using about half the contents, I could see an improvement and almost before I realized it, the pains in my back disappeared. I have had no trouble to speak of from my kidneys since. Occasionally when I have taken a slight cold or over-worked, my back has become weak, but at such times a few doses of Doan's Kidney Pills have always benefited me."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McBirn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

WAR PREPARATIONS BUSILY GOING ON

All the Powers Deny Trouble, But Still Getting Ready.

Berlin Nov. 25.—The German foreign office has not deviated from its previous attitude of confidence that an amicable settlement of the Austro-Serbian controversy will be reached. The Dord Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung, in an inspired note today, denies the alarming reports that have been in circulation on the course that the position taken four days ago by Russia on the question of Serbia's demand for an Adriatic port has been changed. This is stated by the semi-official journal to be incorrect because the powers have agreed not to anticipate the general settlement of the Balkan problem by taking an individual standpoint on special questions.

The Lord Deutsche Zeitung also denies that Austria has mobilized five army corps, and says that the report is untrue, that an Austrian ultimatum to Serbia may be expected soon, because the Albanian and Adriatic questions will come up for discussion and settlement at a general conference on the Balkan situation.

RELATIONS ARE STRAINED

Vienna Political Circles Give Up Hope of Keeping the Peace With Serbia, According to a Paper.

Berlin, Nov. 25.—Relations between Austria Hungary and Serbia are not so strained that political circles in Vienna have abandoned hope of the preservation of peace according to the Neue Gesellschaftliche Correspondenz which says it has its information from a diplomatic source. Despite Austrian denials of the mobilization of the Austria Hungary army, the correspondent declared that five army corps have actually been already mobilized and the reserves continued to be called up in large numbers.

The Austria Hungarian government it continues, is resolved not to await the return of the Serbian troops operating against the Turks and an ultimatum to Serbia may be expected within a few days.

The situation has become more acute through the changed attitude of Russia, Sergius Sazonoff, the Russian foreign minister after having declared suitable as a basis for further negotiations the Austrian proposal guaranteeing Serbia a free port on the Adriatic sea, and a Serbian railroad through Albania, but without territorial rights, has now abandoned this standpoint.

Austria is now disposed to push the matter to a decision, because if war is inevitable she wants to take advantage of her mobilization being more advanced than that of Russia.

ARMING FORTS OF BELGRADE

Serbia Hastily Recalls Many Troops From Turkey, According to Reports Heard in Vienna.

Vienna, Nov. 25.—It is reported here that the Belgrade forts are being hastily armed with heavy guns by the Serbian war office.

Information has also been received that all of the Serbian troops that can be spared from Belgrade and Monastir have been recalled to the Serbian capital.

Belgrade, capital of Serbia lies directly on the Danube river, which separates Serbia from Austria-Hungary.

gary. Its population is about 69,000. It is just below Semlin, in Hungary. Extensive fortifications extend back from the two rivers to the brow of a bridge about 150 feet high. It is near a thoroughly modern city. It was besieged by the Turks in 1456, when the Hungarians drove them off and again in 1832 when the Turks took it. In 1855 it was taken by the Imperialists. Two years later it was captured by the Turks. In 1777 it was besieged by Prince Eugene and taken after a brilliant victory by a relieving army.

In 1739 the Turks made a vain attempt to retake it but soon after came into possession of it by treaty, retaining it until 1789, when it was taken by the Austrians who restored it to the Turks in 1791. The Turkish garrison was withdrawn in 1807.

ARMY NEAR MONTENEGRO

Austria Mobilizes a Striking Force About 50 Miles from Cetinje, its Capital.

London, Nov. 25.—A special dispatch from the Turkish headquarters, at Hadenkeul confirms that the Ottoman troops captured 800 Bulgarian and Serbian prisoners in the last engagement with the Bulgarian right wing on the Tehtulu lines. The Bulgarians also left six field guns and one machine gun on the field.

Another special dispatch from Antivari says Austria Hungary is mobilizing a striking force at Port Ragusa, to which a portion of the garrison of the Austrian fortress of Sulz, in Dalmatia has been sent. Antivari is the sole seaport of Montenegro, 14 miles northwest of Austria Hungary, in Dalmatia, 35 miles west northwest of Cattaro, Dalmatia, which is the nearest seaport to Cetinje, the capital of Montenegro and only about ten miles from it.

Mrs. Charles F. Swinerton has been taken to the Portsmouth Hospital.

New Hampshire Will Take Care of Her Railroad Interests.

The Boston Sunday Post, a really great newspaper and one that New England has expected to grow into a truly independent journal, prints under the caption, "A Granite State Grouch," a comment upon a recent editorial in The Herald as follows:

"A GRANITE STATE GROUCH."

"The scheme of Representative Long to buy the Boston & Maine may sound good to Massachusetts, but if there is any buying of the railroad, New Hampshire will not stand for Massachusetts to have all the say. New Hampshire will not stand for Massachusetts or any other State owning and operating her railroads.—Portsmouth Herald.

"But what would New Hampshire do, should the State of Massachusetts chance some day to take possession of the controlling interest of the Boston & Maine, as it has the legal right to do? What could she do?

"We rather fancy that New Hampshire would 'stand' it, just as she stands the New Haven ownership of the Boston & Maine today. She could hardly shut up an interstate railroad, especially if her laws, so far as constitutional and not contrary to United-States statutes, were obeyed.

"This is a notable case of great cry and little wool from the Granite State."

Our Boston friends can rest assured that New Hampshire has laws and the necessary courage to prevent the Bay State from owning her railroads. And the sentiment voiced by The Herald represents the feelings of ninety per cent. of our people. The esteemed Post is informed that we have laws enough to prevent the politicians of Boston from running our railroads. The Post is big enough and powerful enough to stand for a "Square Deal," and to take the lead in a campaign of getting together for New England. New Hampshire has seen her railroads grow from a one-horse affair with many independent lines to a great system through unification with better service and lower fares. New Hampshire believes that Charles S. Mellen, whom it reared and who got his first training in railroad work within her borders, is sincere and honest in his desire to make the New England lines the finest system in this country. He has already done a great deal in that line for the Boston & Maine and it is showing it from day to day. For some unknown reason and cause the Post, along with some other papers, has "knocked" Mr. Mellen from the minute he came into New England and yet it is admitted that Mr. Mellen has made the New Haven a road equal to any in this country. He has not retaliated or paid any attention to the abuse heaped upon him, but has gone along building up the railroads. This paper has no authority to speak for Mr. Mellen but its editor knows him better than any Boston newspaper man, for he has seen him from his early career in this state and every railroad man in New Hampshire loves and respects him for his honesty. He wants to round out his great career by giving New England the finest system in the world—that is his one aim,—and all the abuse about Morgan and Wall street is tommyrot. Who is going to furnish the cash to build many improvements—the politicians or the men with the cash? Why not give Mr. Mellen a "Square Deal" and see what he can do? Let the Chamber of Commerce and the combined press of Boston meet him fairly and see if it is not his one ambition to give New England the finest system in the world and make Boston the greatest port. He can do it and he is going to if he is given a chance. No one questions his ability and no one that knows him questions his honesty. Will the Post take the lead?

John Bassett Moore.

The President-elect, it may be assumed, is perfectly well aware how exacting is the duty that vests upon him in naming a secretary of state. In earlier days it was thought needful that the President call to his side one of the most conspicuous leaders of the party, who, in becoming secretary of state, was expected to act in some sense as a guide to point out what political path to pursue. Today, the close contact that the United States has with all the great foreign powers demands that our secretary of state, besides being a man of intellectual force and ripe experience in public affairs, should be to a large extent a trained diplomatist.

It is with peculiar satisfaction, therefore, that we note that mention has been made for this great office of a gentleman of eminent fitness, the Hamilton Fish Professor of International Law and Diplomacy at Columbia University—John Bassett Moore. A better appointment could hardly be imagined. Dr. Moore enjoys a well-earned reputation in both continents. He would fill the office most admirably.

No man of experience in public life surpasses this distinguished diplomatist in a knowledge of what the office of secretary requires; nor is there any one more richly endowed with those qualities that ensure success in that department, than is the singularly able, yet very modest, publicist and author, of whom we are speaking. As assistant secretary of state (1886-1891) he is still remembered at Washington as a model official—learned and tactful.

During the Spanish war, President McKinley sent for him to come to Washington, to aid the administration. He responded to this call, and served as assistant secretary of state from April to September, 1898—a patriotic service that reflects the highest honor upon him.

Rifles Thrown Away by Defeated Turks As They Fled Before the Victorious Allies.

The Balkan allies have captured an enormous quantity of stores and arms from the defeated Ottoman legions, and usually the Turks' line of retreat, when hard pressed, has been strewn with guns, blankets and anything carried by the infantrymen that would impede rapid flight. The photograph shows a collection of rifles left by the fleeing Turks at Kumanova and Uskub when they were completely routed by the Serbian troops. The rifles are of the latest pattern and comparatively new.

These words are not mere empty praise. They express what we believe to be the plain truth. We can wish no better fortune for the new administration than that it start off with the name of John Bassett Moore at the head of the cabinet.

The Wealth of the Country

It is to be expected in a country like ours, where there is so much said and done for effect, and where the people really enjoy as a form of entertainment striking and exaggerated statements that during the heat should be said that cannot bear the close scrutiny of hard facts when measured up against them, but now that election is over it is well that in the real and lasting campaign of education on public affairs and conditions, fortunately a campaign that does not cease with the settlement of the politics of the nation at the polls, we can afford to take time to truth of many different problems and consider them not as passionate partisans, anxious to make a case at any cost, but rather as American citizens, whose one desire is to view all matters that come before us in the calm light of reason. It has been frequently asserted on the platform and in the press that 2 per cent of the families of America own 75 per cent of the wealth and that 9 per cent of the families own 92 per cent of the wealth of the country."

The census figures completely refute any such statement. They show that in 1910 the farm property of the United States was worth $47,000,000,000, and that not more than 10 per cent of this wealth is covered by mortgage. It is also to be remembered that the figures and facts show that most of these mortgages are held by small investors. This means that the entire amount of $41,000,000,000 or nearly so, is held and owned by men of average means.

There are approximately twenty million families in the United States. The number of families living on farms is between six and seven million. This means that about one third of the wealth of the country is owned by about one third of the families.

It is true that there is some variation in the wealth of the farmers and the size of their farms, but it is not so great as many would declare it to be. While there are a few notable exceptions the rule is that the farms are not large estates. It may be said that 20 per cent of the farms are operated by tenants. This is true but it is also true that these tenants farms are owned to a very large extent by other farmers. This, as will be seen does not disturb the general statement as to the rates of farm wealth and farm ownership of the total wealth and population of the country are not affected.

It should also be taken into consideration that in addition to the farm wealth there are numberless homes in the villages, towns, and cities of the country which are for the most part owned and used by people of ordinary means. The aggregate value of the homes of the people of the entire country, outside the farms, means billions more in the hands of the people. And further this estimate makes no account of the still greater aggregate to be found in the machinery, merchandise, factories, mills and stores owned and controlled by the thousands of men engaged in enterprises, that no one would think of calling large.

While it is true that vast individual fortunes have been accumulated, especially during the last quarter of a century, and there is a recognized menace in great aggregations of capital in the hands of the few, we should not allow ourselves to be blinded to the further and reassuring fact, that at the same time in the farms and cities many millions of people have been accumulating wealth. It is not true that a few have smothered up the entire wealth of the country or nearly all of it as is so frequently asserted. The United States is at this time the one preeminent country on the face of the globe where independent free and enlightened men own, in a great measure, their homes and to a great extent the business that supports the homes.

There is every reason to be thankful that things are not as bad as they are often painted. There are wrongs and tendencies that need to be corrected and changed. We should be alert, constantly on the rights of the many, and there should be an increasing effort made to give every widening opportunity to the ordinary citizen. Every encouragement should be offered for the struggling, industrious man to get a foothold financially, and first of all to secure for himself and his family a place of shelter and security that they shall call home, and feel that it is the best place on earth because they have a proprietary right in the property that owns its little deeds. It is reassuring to note that these actual facts about the country's wealth and from them take courage for the future.—Manchester Mirror.

The Inauguration Date Amendment.

Representative Henry gives early and hearty assurance of a determination to push vigorously for the adoption by Congress at this coming session of his resolution proposing an amendment of the Constitution changing the inauguration date. Gradually this proposition has been expanded and changed from its original form. At first it included merely the postponement of the inaugural date from March 4 to a date late in April. Then it was made to include a change in the system of congressional sessions, bringing the newly elected Congress into being immediately after election. Now, by virtue of a Senate suggestion, it includes the lengthening of the presidential term to six years.

All of these propositions are meritorious. There is reason for each of them, based upon experience in the workings of the government under the original plan, adopted in conditions differing radically from those of today. There is no longer need of a material delay between the election and the assembling of Congress. Things of the voting travel instantaneously and results are known in a few days. Travel is speedy and one can cross the entire continent in less than a week. A January meeting of Congress is physically possible and is now regarded as politically desirable. The sequence of extra sessions during the past few years attests to the fact that the people are impatient of the delays imposed by rigid adherence to the original plan. Difficulties that once appeared as insurmountable obstacles against combining the earlier assemblage of Congress with the change of date plan no longer loom forbiddingly. Whether the six-year presidential term is desirable is for discussion to answer. It strictly does not belong to the change of date proposal and it is to be hoped that it will not serve to block it again.

As for the matter of the inauguration itself, there should be no two views of the case. The experience of 1909, when President Taft was inducted into office in a wild snowstorm, should have made the amendment certain of adoption. When, immediately after that bitter experience, which cost many lives and caused untold distress to a great multitude of people, the demand for a later inauguration date was voiced there seemed no possibility of further dalliance with the subject. But for one reason and another it languished and was postponed from time to time as something that did not have to be done in a hurry, and the result was that session after session slipped away and nothing was accomplished. Once the resolution came within a third of a single vote of adoption in the House, while the Senate stood ready to pass it quickly if the House would act. Later came complications and changes, until now the resolution awaits the rare favorable opportunity for presentation and passage.

The last Thursday in April is agreed upon as historically and climatically the most suitable time for the inauguration. It was the day of George Washington's first induction into office. It falls in a season of mild weather, when the chances of fair skies are good

FIFTEEN MEN WERE INJURED

Serious Fire at Brooklyn, the Flames Covering Wide Area

New York, Nov. 25.—Brooklyn's East river water front was the scene, late today, of the most serious explosion and fire which that section has known for years. Fifteen men were removed to hospitals suffering from burns and injuries from which a number may die.

Several persons on the scene at the time were missing, tonight, but late reports discredited earlier beliefs that several lives had been lost. The area of three blocks was swept and a loss of nearly $250,000 caused. Notwithstanding that the Brooklyn firemen were aided by New York fire boats, apparatus rushed across the bridge from Manhattan.

The fire started with a series of explosions of chemicals on the ground floor of the five-story building of the Union Sulphur company, South Tenth street and Kent avenue, in the Williamsburg section of Brooklyn. Of seventy men at work in the building a dozen on the main floor were hurled in every direction, suffering terrible burns, bruises and broken bones.

A series of four other explosions followed in quick order and the building was soon enveloped in the weird flames of burning sulphur. Workers who had escaped from other floors, some by jumping, sought to fight their way through the billows of sulphur fumes to the rescue of their comrades and were themselves overcome, but although late tonight half a dozen employees had not been accounted for, it was regarded doubtful that any had been left in the building.

The explosions occurred with such force that eight firemen holding a hose upon the flames were thrown into the East river. They were picked up by a police launch, five of them suffering severe burns from the explosion. The flames swept down a large bay and grain warehouse of the Brooklyn Eastern District Terminal company. At times the wall of flame which the wind drove before it was 200 feet square and it leaked so close to the plants of the Brooklyn Gas company and the Pratt and Standard Oil companies that a series of terrible explosions was momentarily feared. While the heat blistered the gas and oil tanks and firemen were turning tons of water upon them to keep them cool employees hurriedly set to work drawing off the great storage gas, oil and gasoline through pipes which connected with other plants in Long Island City and Greenpoint.

An official of the Brooklyn Eastern District Terminal company, owner of both the sulphur and grain warehouses, said tonight that the loss was officially estimated at $245,000, well covered by insurance.

Cracker Omelet.

Beat the yolks of six eggs until light, season to taste with pepper and salt, add one cup of milk and one cup of powdered crackers and fold in the stiffly beaten whites. Melt one tablespoon of butter in a large omelet pan, pour in the mixture, cook on the top of the stove until brown on the bottom, then finish the cooking in the oven or under the flame in the broiler of the gas stove. When firm to the touch, turn out on a hot dish and serve immediately.

Slice cold potatoes on the meat, then add a few tomatoes cut up or half a can of tomatoes. Cover with water and cook half hour, and you will have a delicious pan stew.

THE HUMAN ELEMENT IN BUSINESS

A Subject Ably Handled By Alfred L. Cutting Before Board of Trade.

The members of the Board of Trade and Merchants Exchange gathered at the Rockingham Hotel on Monday evening, and heard one of the most interesting and instructive talks ever delivered before this body.

Mr. Alfred L. Cutting of Boston, a member of the Boston Chamber of Commerce and the New England representative of the Sheldon School of Chicago, was the speaker, and for over an hour he held the closest attention of everybody, handling his subject "The Human Element in Business" in fine style.

Mr. Cutting has evidently made a close analysis of his subject and he treated it in a most interesting way, bringing home to the members the great value of the human element in all lines of business.

He said in part: "Human element in business is the most important element in business, and this you will realize if you only stop to consider what would happen if all you men should stay at home tomorrow, and not go to your business, and if all of your co-workers should do the same, if this did happen there would be very little business in this city of Portsmouth during the day. What are we in business for? If I should ask that question some of you would say for money, but this is not all, for while money is important, the joy of your work and the happiness is more important, and if you have not this, you miss the success in its higher form. Most of us have to work all our lives and if we did not get happiness out of it there would be little to hope for.

Imagination has accomplished wonderful results, railroads, manufacturing industries and all big undertakings existed first in the minds of men, and because men have initiative and push he made real the dreams, and accomplished great things.

Imagine three circles one within another, which we will call a business target. The outer is business, building, the power to make permanent and profitable, the second is salesmanship, the power to make people buy at a profit and the inner circle or the bull's eye is service, the power to serve to the end and satisfaction and profit of the buyer and seller. The body of business is business building, the heartblood is salesmanship, but the heart that jumps life blood is service. No less a great merchant than John Wanamaker said: "If I only can serve that people of my community a little better than others I will have a beaten path to my door."

The President of the institution of which I have the honor to represent has given to the business world a great truth when he said: "The Science of business is the science of service. He profited most; who served best." This is absolutely true.

whether it be of individual, business institution or an organization like the Portsmouth Board of Trade. You will notice that in the definition given you the word "power" was prominent. Business building the power to make permanent. Salesmanship power to sell goods and service the service the power to give satisfaction to both alike. This is the power of individual, which applies to all business.

If Portsmouth is to grow and develop, it first must get attention. Now there are two kinds of attention favorable and unfavorable. There is a law as sure as gravitation that favorable attention secured and retained, opens into interest which means a visit to your city by automobiles possibly in these days, and visiting they see the many attractions, and resources. Interested argumented results in desire and desire brings results.

Up to this point salesmanship, but in larger concept of business building two other mental states are necessary. Confidence must permeate the whole transaction and patrons must be satisfied. These are introduced to the public through the human element of power of individual. Man commonly speaking is a body plus a mind. All known power of body through which we experience our mental power. A man with a grudge is not a good salesman. Man can be analyzed as a chemist analyzes a chemical. There are sixty elements in a dual nature. He then illustrates these. If man wishes to develop his physical body he sees that it has proper nourishment and the right exercise. The mental body may be developed in the same way.

The right mental food and exercise produced by using ideas obtained by reading and listening to good lectures and coming in contact with men.

He closed by urging upon the members the great need of cooperation, for he said, the success of an institution is the sum of the success of the success. The same way in an organization like a Board of Trade, the success is the sum of the success of the individuals. In closing he said that the laws of nature apply equally to human nature, and quoted from Kipling's "The Law of the Jungle" for like the wolf and the pack, the business man is the organization, and the organization the business man.

Following the address a buffet lunch of salads was served.

FOUR HURT IN A CARRIAGE COLLISION

In a collision between an carriage from the Carey farm at Little Harbor and Paoli's bakery delivery wagon on Miller avenue on Monday evening, shortly before six o'clock the occupants of the carriage were thrown out and more or less injured.

The delivery wagon was standing alongside of the street while the driver, Frank Hersey, was in a house delivering goods. The Carey carriage driven by Patrick Lang and containing head farmer, Clyde and his two daughters, came down Miller avenue. When abreast of the delivery wagon Mr. Lang pulled his horse over to get out of the car track, and the wheel caught in the track and at the same time, the horse took fright and jumped. When he did the wheel caught and the carriage was overturned, throwing all out.

The two girls were badly shaken up and bruised, and Mr. Lang was shaken up and his arm injured, while Mr. Clyde escaped with a few bruises. They were taken into a house nearby and Dr. Hannaford attended them. The horse a high spirited animal, escaped and ran home.

RAILS TO BE LAID THIS WEEK

The work of relaying the tracks of the Portsmouth and Greenland railway, is progressing so fast, that the engineer in charge announced on Monday evening that the tracks would all be in place by Saturday night.

This does not mean that everything will be in readiness, but the section torn up by the owners of the former road extending from the Main to the second overhead bridge will be back. There is considerable work still remaining to be done on the roadbed, which has not been used since last Spring, but the entire road will be ready to operate as soon as the legal formalities of a hearing by the Mayor and Council and selection of the location is over with. The relaying comes the second week in December, so that the road will be in operation for the Christmas holidays.

LUCILLE CAMERON RELEASED.

Chicago, Nov. 25.—Lucille Cameron, whose association with Jack Johnson, led to the negro pugilist's arrest for "leged violation of the Mann white slave act," was released from custody today in bonds of $1000.

The bond was signed by the young woman and her mother, and was accepted by United States District Judge Carpenter, who instructed the young woman to be present as a witness when the Johnson case comes to trial in the early stages of the case. Lucille Cameron was looked on as a highly important witness against Johnson, but with the presentation of other evidence the government decided that it would be necessary to keep her in custody longer.

Lungs Were Affected Now in Good Health

It is beyond human power to perform miracles. The makers of Eckman's Alternative a remedy for Consumption do not claim that it will restore everyone to perfect health, but so many have voluntarily testified, it saved their lives, and all who have this dread disease should investigate and try it. It should stop the night sweats, reduce fever, promote appetite and in very many cases prolong life. Read what it accomplished in this case:—

Catherine Avenue and Ascot Place, Queen's Court, L. I.
"Gentlemen: In the year 1908 I was taken with a heavy cold and a nasty cough and went to several doctors, including a specialist. Their medicines failed. I then went to the Catskills but the cough still kept up. I stayed there a year and then went on a farm near Jersey city a very sick man.

"My brother then recommended Eckman's Alternative to me very highly. At first I would not consent to use it owing to the fact that I had taken so many medicines without being helped in any way, but finally I consented. It is now nearly two years since I first took it, I am now cured and I dare say that I would have been buried long ago, if it had not been for Eckman's Alternative. I wish to thank you for the Goodness to me. Wherever I go I highly recommend the Alternative as I owe my life to it."

(Signed Affidavit)
JOS. J. TROESCHER
Eckman's Alternative is effective in Bronchitis, Asthma, Hay Fever, Throat and Lung Troubles, and in upbuilding the system. Does not contain poisons opiates or habit forming drugs. For sale by Benjamin Green and other leading druggists. Ask for booklet telling of recoveries, and write to Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for additional evidence.

WOMAN IN JUNGLES

Mrs. Kerr Has Spent Many Years in South America.

No Fear of Hostile Natives—Has Collection of Many Specimens of Rare Tropical Birds and Animals for Museums and Exhibits.

New York.—A woman must have two qualities to be a successful naturalist, writes a woman who knows what she is talking about, for she tells in the Housekeeper an extraordinary tale of feminine adventure. She must love nature and she must be without fear.

"I can narrow my eyes along the steel-blue barrel of a gun. I can look without fear into the sullen face of a hostile native. Yet, also, these same eyes of mine bring me a message of pleasure when a gorgeous winged butterfly flits across the still dark tangle of vines and creepers.

"My own countrymen who have come down to this South American coast have said to me: 'Mrs. Kerr, you must be the bravest woman in the world.'

"I do not know. There are the Mathilde Molsants—they flit with death in the clouds. There are the Annie Pecks—they court it over the edge of an abyss. But my work in the jungles of South America, collecting rare tropical birds for museums and private collectors, certainly does bring me face to face with many varieties of danger every day.

"I never know which one of my enemies will claim me—savage beasts, alligators, hostile natives, possibly starvation, or the pestilential fever which reaches out greedy fingers from the dark swamps. Often I find no human being for three weeks at a time. Yet I am not afraid. And I love the jungle.

"My wants are simple—a gun, some poison, and any old thing to eat. I wear bloomers, a long shooting jacket with pockets everywhere, and a rubber hat to protect me from the tropical rains, which sometimes amount almost to cloudbursts. My outfit consists of a small light bake oven, coffee pot, a pot for boiling, a tent, a folding cot, and mosquito netting.

"Sometimes I can get natives to help me, but often I am compelled to carry my outfit, for the Atrato negro is very superstitious. He believes in evil spirits, is afraid of tigers and alligators, and no money could hire him to sleep in places where I often spend weeks alone.

"Sometimes when there are savage beasts about I climb into the treetops and spend the night with the monkeys for companions. One thing with which I have had to contend in this country is the hatred of the natives for all Americans.

"I start out with my gun over my shoulder from the quiet old city of Cartagena, where I make my headquarters between hunting trips, take the old road leading out from the city into the wilderness, and paddle up the Atrato river to where I have a little house built up on poles like the other native huts. For the Atrato river overflows its banks here for hundreds of miles, and as in Venice, we have to do most of our traveling by canoe.

"As I push upstream in my little canoe past gorgeous flowering vines—which I know enough to leave alone, for death lurks in their glossy folds—under great gloomy overhanging trees, with immense vines trailing down to the water, a strange bird flies into the branches of a tree ahead of me. I paddle softly with my gaze fixed on the branches of the tree. The boat runs ashore.

"There is a sudden splash, a terrific blow over the bow of the canoe which almost shivers it to pieces, and my gaze is suddenly brought down from the bird to a big alligator which has been asleep on the shore and which I did not notice. The alligator plunges into deep water and I am left lamenting because the bird has taken fright and flown away.

"I don't mount the birds. I make what are in museum parlance called skins. The rarest bird I find in Colombia and the most difficult to secure is the jabiru (Mycteria Americana), five feet tall, with a spread of wings of 100 inches, a snowy, satiny white, with a band of crimson wattles about the neck. He is the most difficult of all birds to stalk, showing all most human intelligence in his self-defense.

FINDS 100 SPANISH COINS

New Haven Laborer Digs Up Silver Dated From Years 1750 to 1780—Searchers Wreck Cellar.

New Haven, Conn.—Pasquale Valentini, a laborer, while digging in a cellar here, struck his shovel into a powder pot containing more than a hundred pieces of Spanish silver coins. The face value of the coins is about 80 cents each, but they are of dates 1750 and 1780 and may be worth a considerable premium to collectors. The spot where the coins were found was formerly the site of a colonial mansion, built about 1780.

When the news of the discovery became current treasure hunters filled the cellar and before the police could evict them had torn away great sections of the foundations in their search for more coins.

GOLD DUST

removes grease quickly from pots and pans

Cleaning the pots and pans and kettles is usually a most disagreeable piece of work, but like everything else there is an easier way to do it, if one knows how.

As soon as the food is removed, pour in water and dissolve in it Gold Dust in the proportion of one tablespoonful to a gallon of water.

Leave to soak while washing the dishes, then pour off the water and fill with clean suds made in the same way. If particles of food still adhere to the inside of the utensils, use potirings for removing them.

Gold Dust is sold in 5c size and large packages. The large package means greater economy.

GAMBLERS BEFORE THE POLICE COURT

A bunch of gamblers were before Judge Simes in police court on Monday. With one exception they all pleaded not guilty, and were fined $10 and costs of $6.90. Those charged with gambling on Ladd street were Basil Gaxlaro, Robert Malmars, Marnick Folosik all Greeks, and John Barrett, John Welsh, and Melon Ayers.

For crap shooting there was F. J. Flisko, a sailor, Augustus Spinney, and A. Smith they pleaded guilty and were fined $10, and costs of $16.90. Young Spinney got some advice from the hangers on about the court room and some time afterwards announced that he wanted to change his plea and appeal his case. Judge Simes found the lad evidently did not know his own mind and allowed him to change and he was then given a trial and convicted on his own testimony. He was then fined $10 and costs of $2.90 as in the previous case.

Three boys who were in the gang of crap shooters are known but they are all under age, and will have a trial in the juvenile court.

Allan Jones a drunk was sent to the farm for six months. Angelos Constantino charged with maintaining a gambling place, pleaded not guilty and on the evidence submitted, Judge Simes said that nothing had been proven, as it was in evidence that he let the room to him invited the others in for a game. His case was however, held over until this afternoon.

Furners, mechanics, railroaders, laborers, rely on Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. Fine for cuts, burns, bruises. Should be kept in every home. 25 cents and 50 cents.

WOULD MOVE THE MARE ISLAND YARD

Rear Admiral Thomas J. Cowle, paymaster general of the navy, seems to have a weakness for moving the Mare Island yard. A few weeks ago he spent three days at that station to inspect the branches of the Department of Supplies and Accounts whose province it is to purchase materials and stores for the navy rather than to select sites for navy yards. When he left he was tendered a luncheon by the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce during the course of which he stated that San Francisco business men should take steps to secure another site for a navy yard at that place, since there was lack of sufficient water at Mare Island.

The possibility of transferring the Mare Island navy yard to Los Angeles Harbor suggested by Rear Admiral Thomas J. Cowle, paymaster general of the U. S. navy, during his flying visit to Los Angeles has aroused the civic bodies especially the Los Angeles chamber of Commerce, to a new line of activity.

The transfer of the Mare Island navy yard here would mean millions of dollars to Los Angeles under the suggested increased equipment. One of the prime reasons for such a move as mentioned by Admiral Cowle, lies in the difficulty of supplying the Pacific squadron with supplies of fresh water at San Francisco.

"I cannot state positively that such a change is to be made immediately," declared Rear Admiral Cowle, "but the fact is a stubborn one that we must have a station with greater docking facilities and a better fresh water supply at once. Unless conditions change in San Francisco the naval station must be changed."

Admiral Cowle expects to return to San Francisco in the near future to undertake some of the naval projects he has suggested.

retary of the college has returned from Atlanta, Ga., where he has been attending a meeting of the presidents of the state colleges and the directors of the experiment stations. During his absence Prof. C. W. Scott, the oldest member of the faculty in point of service, presided as acting president.

The faculty in cooperation with the student council, are considering the establishment of a new system of rules regarding the number of absences allowed during each term. The matter will probably be decided within two weeks.

The faculty members of the student council sprang a surprise on the student body last evening, by visiting five fraternity houses. The inspecting committee consisted of P. E. Cardullo and Prof. W. H. Wolf. In some cases a few suggestions were offered by the committee to the students, such as better ventilation, and lower temperature in the student rooms, but in general the sanitary conditions were greatly superior to those which prevailed last year.

New Hampshire will be well represented at the Y M C A conference, to be held in Manchester the latter part of this and the first part of next week. The Christian Association of the college is going to send ten men, headed by President P. C. Jones, one of the best all around men in college, who is captain of the football and basketball teams, and also Editor in chief of the College weekly.

The usual Thanksgiving recess will occur this week. Although the length of the recess has not been announced by the faculty, it will probably be from Wednesday until Friday noon, the length of time granted to the student body last year.

Prof. Fred Rasmussen spoke recently before the Scientific Society of St. Paul's School at Concord on "Milk and Its Relations to the Public Health."

The election of a football captain for next season will be held when the picture of the team is taken. The picture, however will not be taken until after December 2 at which time Coach Tod Eberle will return to college. W. H. Brackett, quarterback on the team for the last three years, is the most logical candidate for the captaincy and he will probably be elected. No other name has been mentioned.

At the annual meeting of the Society for the advancement of Horticulture two members of New Hampshire's faculty will read papers. Prof. Courtney's subject will be "Some Aspects of the Storage of Apples," and Prof. Butler will speak upon "Campusium Washes." The society meets in Cleveland, Dec. 31 to Jan. 2.

There has just appeared before the press a book by Prof. W. C. O'Kane, entitled "Injurious Insects, How to Recognize and Control Them." The book is most attractively printed and contains twenty five chapters upon the following topics: Pests of Garden and Field; Pests of Orchards and Small Fruits and Pests of the Household; and it written primarily for those who are not familiar with the subject, the work at the same time shows sound scientific knowledge and attractive literary form. The book contains 414 pages, including 606 very fine illustrations, all original and all photographic, a bibliography, and a complete index. It is published by Macmillan, and costs $2.00.

LITERARY NOTES

The December American Magazine marks an important epoch in the history of periodical making. With this number the American goes to a new size—8 1/2 inches by 12. This permits of three columns of reading matter to the page, much larger and more beautiful illustrations, a book practically as thick as the old standard sized magazines, and a greatly improved physical appearance all around. Of the ninety-two illustrations in the number, twenty four are in color.

David Grayson, J. P. Dunne, Helen Keller, Iro M. Tarbell, Ed. Howe, James Montgomery Flagg, Emerson Hough, and Oliver Herford are writers or articles in this number of the new sized magazine.

On the side of fiction Arnold Bennett leads the way with the first chapter of a new serial entitled "The Regent" a theatrical story, living and stirring. Other stories are by Har-

WOULD INVESTIGATE MONEY SIDE OF DEAL

Washington, Nov. 25.—A movement has been started by certain officials of the House to force an inquiry by the Money Trust investigating committee of the financial stringency, which caused the abandonment of the Grand Trunk of its New England extension. It is known that chairman Judd is not in favor of such an investigation and means are being considered whereby he will have to take it against his will. It is likely that the same members who a year ago started the house on the trail of this octopus will prod the committee on Banking and Currency to look into the Mellen Chamberlin puzzle.

When Lewis D. Brandeis of Boston was in Washington last week he was greatly interested in the New Haven Grand Trunk difficulty and to a newspaper correspondent expressed himself as hopeful that the Judd committee would delve into the aspect of the case because there was to be found in his opinion, the real answers to the questions which have been vexing New England for two weeks.

It is the fixed belief of several members of the house that Mr. Brandeis is correct and that an impartial investigation would disclose that the financial stringency given as one of the first excuses for the abandonment of the work at Palmer and elsewhere was a stringency brought on perhaps through the influence of the Morgan interests for the purpose of forcing the Canadian road to terms. Samuel Untermyer, attorney of the committee is interested in this phase of the question also and he will no doubt cooperate with the radicals in this new move, just as he helped a year ago when the original investigation started.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH

"Christ's Method of Dealing With a Formalist" was the subject of the sermon by the Rev. Harold M. Folsom at St. John's church on Sunday morning.

At the evening service in the chapel the pastor gave the seventh in a series of instructions in "Christian Doctrine," his topic being "Sonship." On Thanksgiving day a service will be held in the church at 10:30 a. m. with an Thanksgiving sermon by the pastor.

Saturday being St. Andrew's day here will be morning prayer, and a celebration of the Holy Communion at 10:30 a. m. in the chapel, and evening prayer with address at 5 p. m.

The Woman's Auxiliary will hold its next monthly meeting on Tuesday, Dec. 3. The Auxiliary is making arrangements to send a Christmas box to a presbyter of the church and to families in the diocese of Kansas. The box is to be packed at the meeting on December 3. Those who have articles to contribute for the box may leave them at St. John's rectory at anytime previous to the next auxiliary meeting. Articles such as clothing, towels, table linen, etc., are always found most acceptable by the recipients.

FLOWERS BLOOM IN FREEZING WEATHER

Mrs. John Flanigan of 344 Portsmouth avenue has a flower garden which does not seem to mind the freezing weather. Where all other gardens have been frozen up, Mrs. Flanigan is still picking flowers from her attractive garden. On Monday a bunch of fresh English daisies were picked from the garden, and they were as fresh and as fragrant as in the middle of summer.

OBJECTS TO CHARGE OF ROUGHNESS

John Barrett, Dartmouth, 89, president of the Alumni Association at Washington has issued a letter of protest against the recent sharp criticism of the Green football team by Coach Haughton of Harvard.

Mr. Barrett believes that Coach Haughton will later recall his charges of dirty football but in any event trusts that the snap judgement will in no wise disrupt the cordial relations between the colleges.

In his letter Mr. Barrett says as a lover of fair play, and the square deal in college athletics and other relations—

"I wish to protest and with good reason against the alleged deflection cast upon the Dartmouth eleven by Coach Haughton for its playing in the recent Harvard-Dartmouth game."

"I have waited until today to make this statement as I wished to have my evidence before me. Although it was not my privilege to see the game, immediately after reading his reported criticisms, I telegraphed to about 20 representative Harvard Yale Princeton, and Dartmouth men, who did see the game and asked their frank unbiased opinions as to any roughness of rowdiness by Dartmouth players who would justify Mr. Haughton's alleged remarks. All of these replied specifically stating that they saw nothing to warrant his aspersions and some expressed themselves in terms of indignation that as should have assumed an attitude which might disrupt the long standing cordial relations of Dartmouth and Harvard."

"As director general of the Pan-American Union, I may know little or nothing about practical football, though always fond of the game, compared with Mr. Haughton as a football coach, but I honestly believe that my conception of gentlemanly consideration for an adversary as well as my sense of justice for all concerned, and equal to his, and that therefore, I can state that it is a great pity that in his excitement, he should have expressed himself in a manner that may do lasting harm to the cordial entente of these two old New England institutions."

"The thousands of alumni of both Dartmouth and Harvard who are more closely allied by association than possibly those of any other two colleges should not allow the snap judgement of some excited coach to interfere with this good feeling. I trust that Mr. Haughton himself may in his soberer thoughts, realize the far reaching harm he has done, by his incontinent remarks and recall or amend them."

NAVY YARD NEWS

No Money to Equip Vessels

Owing to the lack of money for the equipment of vessels it is understood that the collier Mars cannot be put into commission as planned and through the same course there will be a delay in the sailing of the gunboat Petrel, and survey ship Hannibal.

Men to be Heard

Rules formulated at the recent conference at Washington of navy yard commandants designated to put 20,000 navy yard employees throughout the country, under the civil service, have been approved by the navy department.

Asst. Sec. Deekman Winthrop today mailed copies of the rules to the commandants of the New York, Boston and Washington yards, with instructions that the views of the men whom it proposed to cover in the civil service be obtained. It was suggested that at each yard a committee of three men be appointed from among the men to confer with the commandants.

The rules are said to embody no unusual feature and do not affect the wage scale.

Naval Orders

Ensign E. C. Sweney, from the Delaware to the Hannibal.

The Beale from Norfolk for Washington, the Cumberland, Sonoma, and Ontario from New York for Guanacama, the Florida and North Dakota from Charleston for New York, and the Utah, Delaware, Virginia, Rhode Island, Georgia, New Hampshire, Illinois Idaho, and Ohio from Charleston for Hampton Roads.

Committees to be Heard

The board on wages for the year of 1913 today issued the following circular: "To the Employees Navy Yard, Portsmouth, N. H."

"The board of wages, appointed to adjust the wages of employees at this yard for year ending December 31, 1913, will meet in the office of the Board of Labor Employment, Monday, December 9, 1912, at which time committees representing the various trades and occupations, after having obtained permission of the Commandant, will be afforded an opportunity to appear before the board. Members of committees of trades will be notified by telephone at what hour to appear before the board."

"Employees who appear before the board at this time will designate several establishments in the vicinity of the yard where men are employed in the trade or occupation in which they are interested under conditions similar to those existing here, in order that the board may make further or additional inquiries, if such action would seem desirable from the statements made or the data submitted by employees as to the rates of wages in their respective trades or occupations."

"Respectfully,
"F. W. HARTLETT, Capt., U. S. N.,
"Senior Member, Wages Board."

Back With Uncle Sam.
C. S. Marshall, a yeoman who deserted the U. S. Dolphin at Washington in March last, and who was arrested here on Monday, was brought to the yard today and turned over to the commanding officer of the Southern.

Marshall was a former member of the crew of the U. S. S. Eagle and very well liked by his shipmates on that vessel.

Another One Going

E. E. Chabot, a popular member of the hull division clerical force, has tendered his resignation to accept an appointment as stenographer and typewriter in the interior department at Washington.

More of Them Going

Another detachment of prisoners from the prison and ships will shortly be sent to the detention barracks at Port Royal.

Eben has the goods.

And Also His Eye on the Mayor's Chair at City Hall.

A number of candidates for the mayoralty nomination have lately appeared on the political horizon, among them Eben H. Blaisdell, at present a member of the board of assessors. The minute that Eben's name came forth in the lineup his friends became busy. They say that the McDonough street grocer is not to be hoodwinked, sidetracked or buffeted any longer. That he is going in the fight and the hotter the fight the better for the grocer and his lieutenants. They want a republican and that is where Blaisdell fits. He is no bull moose, mugwump or peanut politician, but a republican first, last and all the time.

Eben graduated politically in the ranks of the grand old party and it goes without saying that he will stick to the ship as long as there is a ship to stick to. In this fight that is ahead of him for higher political honors he certainly has the choice of good backing. The Boat and Shoe Workers' Union, of which he has been a member since the days of the Portsmouth Shoe company, would wish for nothing better than to see their idol planted in the chair which Mayor Badger has occupied for the past two years. The Little Bovey association, of which he is the father, will be there with a hundred votes or more if they can only mark a ballot for the man that has made the association famous. Then comes the veteran streamer. These men that have litted the flames in old days with Eben and marched side by side with him when the gallant red shirt heroes were on parade, can be counted to a man for their comrade.

All in all the political path looks easy for the man from the first ward who has had his eye on the chair of the chief executive since he cast his first vote for the grand old party.

AFTER THE PLUMS.

Three Mayors Said to Be After Other Government Positions.

A writer for one of the Boston upday papers announces that Mayor Badger of this city is an avowed candidate for the place of United States Marshal to succeed Eugene P. Nute. He also names Mayor Charles J. French of Concord for the position. Mayor Badger was out of the city today and the Herald was unable to learn what amount of truth there is in the news via Boston. For other offices Mayor Barry of Nashua is named as the man to succeed U. S. District Attorney, Charles W. Holt.

The name of Thomas H. Madigan Jr., former chairman of the democratic state committee, has been prominently mentioned for this place but it is predicted that Mayor Barry's intimate relations with the Wilson campaign in New Hampshire will assure the place to him.

VENISON SUPPER.

—James Harvey Does the Honors.

The Hotel DeWitt was the scene of a lively gathering on Monday evening when James Harvey was the host at a venison supper to his friends.

No more elaborate spread ever went on the dining room tables of the De Witt and the guests for an hour or more had a merry time at the festive board.

The guests present were Albert Trotter, N. H. Beane, Ceylon Spilney, Dr. C. O. Johnston, Dr. E. B. Eastman, Valentine Hett, Fred V. Hett, John S. Young, H. W. Howard, Frank Ellis, A. E. ## HARD ON EXETER MAN.

Alamander of Exeter Is Mistaken for the Other Churchill.

Judge Calvin Page of this city tells an amusing story which occurred in the course of the recent campaign. He said that he met a man from the north country who said that he had always voted the republican ticket, but this year he intended to change and vote the democratic ticket, with the exception of for Governor. He intended to cast his ticket for Churchill. "Why for Churchill?" asked the Judge. "Do you know him? Have you met him in an intimate way, when you have been at home?" Of course I know Mr. Churchill," he replied. "He lives in Exeter, wears a tall hat and is a fine old gentleman."

The up country man had Winston Churchill the author, mixed with Alamander Churchill of Exeter.
